BEAUTIFUL NOISE

World sound healing day

★ Save the date: February 14th marks the 15th annual World Sound Healing Day where, at midday, people around the world will come together to create positive vibes to help the planet. You can do it anywhere – whether you're at home, work or anywhere else simply by making the 'ah' sound for five minutes on Valentine's Day. If you can't make the sound at noon, sounding anytime during the day will help create a positive shift. Why not give it a try and get those healing vibes flowing?

STAR SPIRITUALITY

Gloria's gratitude to angels

★ Gloria Hunniford has always been vocal about her belief in angels and, in her new autobiography, she reveals how one came to her rescue after she and her husband were involved in a near-fatal car crash in the South of France. 'Stephen's head had hit the windscreen, and blood was coming down his face,' the Loose Women star reveals in her book My Life. 'Out of the crowd came a beautiful young girl with long blonde hair who spoke perfect English. She said: Would you like me to look after your car?' After a trip to hospital, Gloria and Stephen went to a hotel where they spotted the girl working in the restaurant, and she was able to help them locate their wrecked car. 'Later that day I took a bunch of flowers to the restaurant to thank the girl. But not one person knew who the girl was. They were adamant she had never worked there. I really do believe she was sent to us and it strengthened my belief in angels.'

PHANTOM FASHION

Made up horror

★ Don't fear – what you're seeing isn't real. It's Mirjana Milosevic caked in make-up! The Serbian cosmetics lover uses lashings of black paint to make parts of her body and face disappear against a jet-black background to create these amazing spooky illusions. Each look takes up to six hours to create and some of Mirjana's creepy designs on her YouTube channel include a corpse bride (main pic) and 'hole in the soul' with a portal coming out of her chest. Her most popular creation, a wooden doll impaled on a spring (above right), was inspired by her childhood fear of dolls. See the videos for yourself at kikastudio on YouTube.

BOOK of the MONTH

Deadknobs And Doomsticks

Creepy stories aren't something you'd associate with squeaky-voiced comedian Joe Pasquale, but he has brought out this collection of 12 dark and twisted horror tales, tinged with humour. Many centre around the theme of bullying and highlights include a young boy who's taken to see his 102-year-old grandad and discovers a dark family secret, plus the life of a cruel magician who hasn't slept for 20 years.

WORLD FIRST

Ghostly protests

★ A project to create the world's first ever database of haunted objects is being thwarted by the spirits contained within them, who are scared of technology! Greg Newkirk and Dana Matthews, founders of The Traveling Museum of the Paranormal & Occult, have been using special scanners to make digital copies of the objects in their collection, which include Ouija planchettes and drums for summoning voodoo-spirits, so they can print out exact replicas in 3D. However, not all has gone to plan – especially when it came to a large African idol called Billy who kept breaking the scanning machine.

Greg and Dana asked Billy's spirit what his problem was. 'Is it going to hurt me?' came the reply. After nearly 30 hours of assurances it wouldn't, Billy gave in, and the pair now have a 3D image of him printed. However, it's not the end of their woes. 'Artifacts mysteriously go missing before we can scan them and a duplicate of a haunted mask completely melted the printer,' says Dana.

CREEPY CRIMES

Black cat mystery

★ Police are investigating a spate of black cat disappearances in North Yorkshire which locals fear is linked to their association in some people's minds with witchcraft. Since September, up to seven black cats have vanished in the neighbouring villages of Croft-on-Tees and Dalton-on-Tees, including 39-year-old Harriet Boyd's two pets, Austin and Arthur. 'We've come to the inevitable conclusion that someone is taking the cats and we're trying to imagine why,' she said. 'All the missing cats are black which is very odd. I have been thinking in terms of witchcraft.' Another local, Jane Parlour, says two of her black cats disappeared, only to reappear several days later.

Star birthday FORECAST

Happy 45th birthday, Peter Andre!

Psychic Medium David Maddock predicts what's ahead for the singer on his birthday...

'I see Peter possibly presenting a dating show. There's also another type of show he'll be involved in which will be wacky and fun packed, perhaps for kids. Peter's love for his wife Emily MacDonagh will just keep growing. They might even have another child, though not just yet!' ● For more information, visit connectwithdavid.co.uk
